Strategic Foresight for Executive Leadership

The pace of AI-related regulation, geopolitical events, and market shifts has outpaced most organizations' governance frameworks. Your senior leadership needs to be ready — before the questions come from the board, the regulators, or the market.

THE PROBLEM

- AI-related regulation, geopolitical events, and market shifts have outpaced most organizations' governance frameworks — and the gap is accelerating
- Senior leaders are fielding material-risk questions — from the board, regulators, and investors — that management wasn't prepared to answer
- Executive preparation ≠ internal planning — getting your leadership team ready requires different framing, a different audience, and a different standard of evidence
- Most advisors bring generalist consultants or a junior bench — not principals who've sat in the executive seat and know what leaders actually need
- Regulatory timelines don't pause for governance gaps — the window to get ahead of this is closing

WHO THIS IS FOR

- CEOs, COOs, and executive leadership teams accountable for AI, cyber, and material-risk decisions
- CISOs, CTOs, and CIOs translating technical risk into business and board-level language
- General Counsel and Chief Risk Officers navigating SEC disclosure rules and emerging AI liability
- Senior leaders preparing for board conversations, investor diligence, or regulatory scrutiny
- Organizations ahead of a significant fundraising event, M&A transaction, or regulatory inquiry

WHAT YOU GET

Facilitated Leadership Session

A senior-led half-day working session for 6–16 executives. Framed for business leaders and built to generate discussion and decision-readiness — not just deliver slides.

Custom Risk Landscape

A written risk-landscape summary calibrated to your sector, regulatory exposure, and technology posture. Evidence-backed, yours to retain, ready to share with your board, investors, or auditors.

Priority Action Register

The three to five highest-risk areas where your governance needs immediate attention — with owner assignments, sequenced recommendations, and a concrete 90-day path forward.

We give your leadership team the clarity and confidence to lead on AI, cyber, and material risk — before the questions come from the board, the regulators, or the market.

Senior Realis principals only — no junior bench. 6–16 executives. Remote or on-site. 14-day delivery from signed engagement. Available on AWS Marketplace, direct, and through partners.

HOW IT WORKS

I. Discovery

Structured intake with your CISO, CLO, and CTO to map current posture, outstanding regulatory obligations, and the board's existing awareness level. Establishes the session agenda and calibrates the risk landscape.

II. Risk Mapping

Realis advisors synthesize discovery findings against the current regulatory landscape — EU AI Act, NIST AI RMF, SEC cyber rules — and your sector-specific exposure. Shapes the risk landscape document.

III. Leadership Session

Senior Realis principals facilitate the half-day working session. Framed for your executive team and designed to surface the questions leaders need to answer — from the board, regulators, and investors.

IV. Written Deliverables

Risk landscape, priority action register, and session summary delivered within 5 business days. Ready to share with the board, auditors, or legal counsel.
